

Success Through

Teamwork

You and your nephrologist will quickly learn that a strong team is behind you 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

What makes a good team?

Reliable clinical support with superior nursing care, dietary care and social worker support.

The best clinical practices and up-to-date management protocols based on the National Kidney Foundation's Dialysis Outcomes Quality Initiative Guidelines.

Excellent communication between you, your nephrologist, and HDT of San Diego. We provide bilingual personnel to better serve our communities.

Improving Your Quality of Life

There is more to living than simply not dying. Quality of life means everything. Home dialysis therapy allows people with advanced kidney disease to be independent and to eat and drink more of what they like. We provide comprehensive and compassionate care that will help you live your life to the fullest.

'50% of new patients choose home dialysis when given objective treatment options training'

Services Provided

Treatment Option Education – People with advanced kidney disease need to prepare for the possibility of kidney replacement therapy. Your options include home dialysis, in-center hemodialysis and transplantation. Education is essential for people to make the best decision for their unique circumstances. Our training team is always up to date and will help you in this education process while communicating directly with your nephrologist. Being informed is the best strategy for the best decision.

Training You for Home Dialysis – Home Dialysis Therapies (HDT) of San Diego is staffed with experienced and friendly nurses who will help you gain the skills needed to perform home dialysis. Home dialysis is simple and does not require an advanced educational background or the hands of an artist.

Monitoring Your Progress – Your overall health, survival, and wellbeing critically depends on setting and achieving the right goals. Getting there requires close follow-up and a solid team behind you.

Communication – HDT of San Diego will work closely with you and your nephrologist to assure that care is optimized.

Our Promise

We will provide the best kidney replacement therapy possible in order to help those with advanced kidney disease to lead healthy, independent, and productive lives.
